As we were closing this issue of Prolegomena, preparing it for print, we heard a sad, tragic news that our dear college and friend, a long-term collaborator on our journal, and a member of its advisory board, Professor Berislav Žarnić, has suddenly passed away at the age of 57. Professor Žarnić was a prominent Croatian logician and philosopher, and his premature death is a great loss to both, the Croatian and the global philosophical community. We hereby offer our sincere condolences to his family and friends.
